ILLUMINATED PARADE INSPIRING SPECTACLE

Beautifully Decorated Floats in Line Thursday Evening

WOODWARD IS A WINNER

Takes Prize For Best Decorated Auto—Dixon Furniture Co. Gets Float Prize

One of the most inspiring spectacles of the entire day Thursday was that of the parade in the evening. Not only was it inspiring to the thousands that thonged the streets in spite of the drizzling rain, but in the award of prizes for best decorated floats and automobiles, it was closely contested.

CAPT. JOHN K. HEIN

An automobile resplendent in decorations of white, with two doves to the front from which ribbons were drapped to the back of the car won the automobile prize. It was that of S. L. Woodward. Adding to the general fine appearance of this automobile girls dressed in white rode in the car and the driver was Miss Sargent of Brownsville. The prize winning float was that of the Dixon Furnitue company. It was made up as a bedroom, and was decidedly original. The prize for the organization having the most men in line in uniform was awarded to the Charleroi Volunteer Fire department.

The automobile division, led by the police patrol came first in the parade, and shortly after it followed the second and third divisions. At the head of the second division rode Capt. John K. Hein, chief marshal and his staff. Floats in abundance, decorated in such variety and displaying all sorts of ideas in their make-up, were in the second and third divisions, being interspersed with footmen. The Fraternal Order Patriotic Americans had a large number of men in line.

The judges of the parade, Herman A. Heupel, R. J. Whitehead, J. M. Hill, Wylie McCarty and Oscar Linn viewed the parade from the reviewing stand on McKean avenue. At the conclusion Chief Marshal Hein, with his staff and aides, C. S. McKean, Lawrence B. Frye, Oscar Carson, J. H. Frye, Henry Acker and John Majors wheeled to a position by the stand and reviewed the parade.

In judginb the exhibits the judges had a hard job. The prize for the organization having the most uniform-

Upper Classmen Engage in Horseplay More Picturesque Than Dignified

Freshmen boys in the Charleroi high school must be careful hereafter as to their headwear. Upper class folks have decided that they must all wear the regulation headgear, which is a small green cap with a large yellow button.

The upper classmen caught several of the freshmen this morning and supplanted the new caps for their regular head covering. During the noon hour several of the upper classmen met at the corner of Fifth street and Fallowfield avenue and enforced their edict.

IMPROVED ROAD SOON A REALITY

Pieces of Monongahela to Pittsburg Highway Now Being Finished

IS IMPORTANT WORK

That within a short time there will be a complete improved road from Monongahela to Pittsburg, is evidenced by the fact that active work has been started upon the last connecting link in the stretch, that portion of highway between Crookhams and Finleyville.

The engineers have completed their final surveys preparatory to the actual work and Superintendent of Construction H. G. Smith has arrived on the scene to take personal charge of the work. The construction camp has been erected and the shanties for the men have been built on the Birkhimer place. In fact everything has been completed ready to sink the picks in the road bed and to make the dirty fly. The construction superintendent states that he will rush the work as rapidly as possible and that his instructions are to get the work done and quickly at all hazards.

When this stretch of road is completed it will mean a chain of improved highways pactically through to the heart of Pittsburg and will be the solution of the highway question in that locality. It will connect on this end with the Mingo road and with the Finleyville highway on the other end.

Monongahelans are interested in the completion of this work and will watch the progress of the contractors with much interest.

Another road improvement that is under way which is of particular interest throughout this section from the Charleroi road in the direction of Monongahela, by way of Roths.

LOCAL BALLOONIST MAKES ASCENSION

Charles Wagner Battles With Adverse Conditions in Aerial Trip--Lands on Fallowfield Avenue Blocks Away From Starting Point

In spite of poor weather conditions and other troubles, Charles "Pooney" Wagner, of Charleroi, made a good balloon ascension late Thursday afternoon as a part of the events of the day's celebration. He was unable to free himself from the balloon for his parachute drop, which was to have been a sensational feature, and dropped with the balloon, alighting on the sidewalk near Fallowfield avenue and Seventh street. His balloon fell on the roof of the Nussburger confectionery store not far from where young Wagner lit.

The ascension was scheduled to take place at 2:45 o'clock in the afternoon. Adverse conditions caused the youthful balloonist to abandon this plan. The wind was poor for an ascension, and the immense gas bag showed evidences of leakage. By time for the flight at 5:30 o'clock leaks had been repaired and wind conditions were better.

Wagner's efforts to free the parachute from the balloon could be plainly seen by the watching populace He worked anxiously after he had risen far above the earth, but it was no go. His knife would not work. After it started down, his balloon dropped rapidly, but he was not in the least injured.

POLICE HELPED OUT BY VISITORS

Donora, Monessen, Brownsville and Other Towns Have Cops Here

Although there were thousands of visitors in Charleroi Thursday excellent order was maintained throughout the day. This fact was largely due to the work of Chief of Police C. W. Albright and his able assistants. Only 12 arrests were made during the day and night.

In addition to the regular Charleroi police force there were police from Donora, Monessen, Brownsville and 15 men appointed as special police just for the day. Chief of Police F. Glace and two patrolmen constituted the reinforcements from Donora. Lieut. Albright was in charge of five patrolmen from Monessen. There were two patrolmen from Brownsville. There was a total force of 29 police in Charleroi Thursday.

H. PORTER HAS NOVEL FLOAT

One of the novelty arranged floats in the parade Thursday night was that of H. Porter, jewelry at 534 Fallowfield avenue. It was decorated with goods, including watches, clocks and jewelry, thaken from his new line of Chirstmas goods just received from New York. Mr. Porter stated this morning that he did not loose over $6 worth of jewelry from his float.

Mr. Porter gave away more than 3,000 souvenirs Thursday night, consisting of cuff buttons, stick pins, sterling silver rings, jet beads, fancy pins, leather match cases and whistling bords.

HOT CONTESTS ON THURSDAY

Racers Make Things Lively -Good Time Made in the Various Events

Athletic events were hotly contested Thursday and some of the most thrilling races were pulled off, beginning with the bicycle race in the morning, from Ellsworth to Charleroi. The finish was at the Charleroi postoffice, and three riders made things hum toward the finish. Charles Patelini, of Dunlevy, made exceptionally good time 34 minutes, 45 seconds. In the bicycle race any man was privileged to ride whatever kind of wheel he possessed and Paterlini possessed a two speed Flying Merkle, with which he won the race.

Another of the interesting races was that of the marathon race of the afternoon, which was won by Carl McGuire of Charleroi. There were three runners, McGuire and two Finnish boys from Monongahela, who had it nip and tuck until within a short ways of Charleroi, when McGuire took the lead and held it.

TICKETS AT MAIL FOR FOUR CONTEST WINNERS

Tickets for four contest winners are at the office of the Mail, where they may be had by the properly designated persons that they may claim their prizes. They are for the Ellsworth team winner of the second place in the tug-of-war; Grant Ames, winner of first place in the mule race; Harvey Fine, winner of third place in the mule race, and Edward Bickerton, winner of fourth place in the marathon race.

In the motorcycle hill climbing contest Homer Mathias of Charleroi, who won the hill climbing contest at Uniontown some time ago on an Emblem machine captured first place. C. W. Albright, Jr., and William Houston tied for second place, and were to toss coins for the decision, or else arrange another race.

In the tug of war a Charleroi team of husky gentlemen won from the Ellsworth team. Jack Anderson captained the Charleroi team.

Pardini Has Unique Job

Band Leader at Ellsworth Employed With Sociological Department

In the person of Americus Pardini Charleroi was visited Thursday by a man who holds an unusual position with credit both to himself and the company he represents. Pardini is employed by the sociological department of the Ellsworth Colleries company. He is the director of the Cokeburg-Ellsworth band and the boys' band from the same place. He is a band leader born into the work, and before coming to this country gained experience in Italy. To his efforts is largely due the excellent work of the band.

CODIFIED LAW BOOKS NOW READY

Borough Statutes in State Compiled in One Neat Booklet

ARE BEING DISTRIBUTED

Supplementing the codification of the state's taxation laws, which was issued during August, the Legislative Reference Bureau now has issued a similar codification of all general laws affecting boroughs. This, like the taxation code, is printed in pamplet form and is being given away free of all charge to anyone who applies for it.

No codification of borough laws has been made since the general borough statute was enacted more than half a century ago. The last legislature directed the Legislative Bureau to prepare codes of all classes of laws and to present such as may be ready to the legislature of 1915. Three will be presented next January —the taxation code, the borough code and the corporation code. The last named will be ready for the public about November 1.

These codifications have been prepared under the supervision of James McKirdy, assistant director of the Legislative Reference Bureau. As with the taxation code, he especially invites criticism of the borough code, to the end that any errors which may have crept in may be corrected before the bill is presented to the next legislature. The code esta blishes no new laws, being merely a systematic, logical and convenient arrangement of existing statutes on the subject.

Anyone interested in the subject who desires a copy of the borough code may have it free by writing to Mr. McKirdy at Harrisburg. A postal card request is sufficient.

Day's Events Bring Together Crowd Estimated at 10,000

RAIN NO DETERRENT

Weather in Evening Does Not Spoil Program—Affairs Carried Out in Detail

Fully 10,000 people were royally entertained Thursday in the four-town celebration in honor to the opening of the new Charleroi-Bentleyville trolley line. The people of the industrial communities of Bentleyville, Ellsworth and Cokeburg were guests and the first thing that was done was to present the key of the city to these visitors. Not only were the Pigeon Creek valley towns largely represented, but hundreds came from other points along the Monongahela valley, from Washington and vicinity and from Pittsburg. Fully 200 persons were here from Washington. Other towns along the "historic route" and throughout the county contributed their full quota of visitors.

At 10 o'clock Bentleyville, Ellsworth and Cokeburg folk were met at Second street and Fallowfield avenue by the reception committee of local citizens. There was a short parade that ended at the reviewing stand on McKean avenue. Here Councilman W. R. Gaut made a short address of welcome and delivered into the keeping of the visitors the key of the Magic City. Prof. E. E. Bach of Ellsworth, representing the burgesses of Bentleyville, Cokeburg, and Ellsworth accepted the key for the day.

In his address Councilman Gaut spoke of the importance of the growing communities represented and of the neighborly spirit that was welding them together as one. In his response Prof. Bach spoke entertainingly of the occurrences of today in comparison to the events of years ago in history. He compared the building of the railroad across the continent with that of the building of the local electric railway line and drew from the two the same lessons referring to the better means of transportation afforded, trade stimulation between sections formerly remote and the establishment of a closer relationship between the sections united.

The various contests were viewed by thousands during the day. There was only one discouraging feature. That was in the rain which began to fall in the afternoon and continued throughout the evening. In spite of the discomforts due to weather conditions, people thronged the streets and laughed when drenched.

The largest crowd was on hand in the evening for the big industrial parade. Every incoming car and train was crowded with people from many points along the Monongahela valley. The crowd was orderly and the police from Monessen and Donora who were here to assist Chief of Police C. W. Albright and his men had little work to do. Bentleyville, Ellsworth and Cokeburg citizens were here en

CLEAN BREAD.

It has been said that the making of a perfect loaf of bread is the goal of all those who aspire to excel in cookery. Certainly bread, which forms a part of every well planned meal, is a food of which the palate never tires. Let the loaf be ever so satisfactory, however, with respect to size and symmetry, crust and crumb, when it leaves the baker's oven, it may nevertheless experience subsequent changes which sooner or later render it less attractive, palatable, or wholesome. Stale bread does not appeal to the taste in the same way that fresh specimens of the "staff of life" do; but in addition to the development of staleness bread may also develop so-called bread diseases caused by micro-organisms, rendering the product unfit for human consumption. Furthermore, like many other unprotected and carelessly handled articles of food, exposed bread may become a purely mechanical carrier of objectionable organisms.

The recent agitation in behalf of improved conditions in the food industries has involved not only the adulteration of the products entering into the ration of man and the domestic animals, but likewise the cleanliness of the articles of diet intended for human consumption. The plea for clean milk is becoming more prominent than the propaganda for pure milk. Sanitary food legislation is beginning to aim at food that is clean from the point of the hygienist.

The demand for clean bread has promptly followed the cry for clean milk and unpolluted water. Already in many communities regulations are in force which compel the protection of bread and bakery products between the oven and the home. Bread wrapped with either porus or paraffined paper is now a common sight even in small villages of the United States.

Although this practice has met with public approval in many quarters, it has been claimed that wrapping injures the quality and palatability of the loaf. This claim demands consideration along with the possible sanitary advantages. A chemical investigation of the subject has been completed in the department of food and drugs of the Indiana State Board of Health. The wrapping of the bread, either in semi-porus waxed or paraffin paper retards the escape of moisture and tends rather to the preservation of freshness of the bread than to its staleness. Unwrapped bread loses its freshness after the first day, while the early keeping quality both as to condition of crumb, flavor and odor is enhanced by the use of wrappers. There is, accordingly, says The Journal of the American Medical Association, no occasion at present for discarding what has seemed to many to be a wholesome precaution in the distribution of bakery products.

HOSPITALITY SHOWN

Charleroi's hospitality was shown Thursday to one of the largest crowds that ever assembled in the Magic city, and it was shown in a way that proved the assertion that the town knows how to do things.

Credit amounts to something of course, so the credit for the success of the day goes to the committees and to the numerous volunteers who freely lent their labors. Their glory was in the knowledge of duty well done. Plans were carried out carefully according to detail.

Such celebrations as Charleroi enjoyed are worth while. They add a zest to every-day living that relieves any sort of monotony and provides a vacation. It is a vacation for those who never get away to enjoy a day such as was celebrated Thursday. Moreover the town profits. Visitors who come once will come again, and that is always an objective.

Letter to Railroad Presidents

Dear Mr. President:

I wish to take a trip to New York city in the near future and am receiving bids from various roads. It is rumored that your road has raised rates and a bluff. Is it true? I am addressing this same letter to your competitors and I am determined to patronize the road which is showing the least consideration for the traveling public, both in price and point of service. If you can get me to New York for $10 more, with worse service than any other of course I shall patronize your road. I understand you have removed your pullman trains. That is good, for it will make riding more difficult. I'm glad you are putting up a bluff on the government. It may be successful and if so the poor pro bono publico citizen will have to go to the poorhouse, where he ought to be.

Yours appreciatively,

John Punkins

P. S. I have changed my mind and will travel by automobile. A man just now sold me a second hand machine for $50, and I think it will cause me enough trouble and annoyance.

Remember, old man, I'm with you on this bluff business. J. P.

PICKED UP A PASSING

"What's he doin', sister?" asked a small girl of her older sister as they looked over the comic section of one of the dailies.

"He's in love with the girl up here at this window," explained the sister, "and that's a banjo he's playing on. That's serenading her."

Little 8-year-old was greatly impressed.

A few evenings later she came into the room where her sister was entertaining a man friend, and puzzled them both by asking: "Why don't you lemonade my sister some time?"

An Oklahoma ranch-owner recently advertised in the Fort Worth, Tex., papers for a wife. No woman, the ad stated, need answer unless she was good-looking and a good cook.

BMut these were not the only qualifications required. Applicants, to receive consideration, had to be widows whose husbands had died by hanging. Right off the reel, this clause makes it appear as though the Oklahoma gentleman had bats in his belfry, but an examination into the case demonstrated that he is a pretty level-headed party.

"Every widder I ever heard tell of," he explains, "when she married again kept her husband in hot water by rubbin it it 'bout what a smart feller her No. 1 was. Such a condition of affairs is liable to cause consid'ble friction in the bosom of a family—and I'm a man that craves peace. So therefore I put that there proviso in 'bout No. 1 bein' hung.

What happened to him don't worry me none, but as for me, I yearn for peace and I'm a-goin' to have it."

AMONG THE THEATRES

COYLE—CHARLEROI

Two of the best of the Paramount releases thus for held prominent places on the program of the Coyle theatre for the week. The first of these was "Bobby Burnit" which was shown on Tuesday the picture featured Edward Abelis. "Such a Little Queen" a celebrated romantic comedy with Mary Pickford, the famous movie star in the role of the little queen who proved that there is little difference between the royalty and common people when the two are wrecked by the circumstances of fate, was the leading feature of the weekly program. In this production Mary Pickford with her quaint gentleness of manner, charm and winsomeness makes one of the most lasting impressions of her already brilliant career. For Tuesday next, William Tell one of history's most interesting naratives. has been programmed.

LYRIC—CHARLEROI

This week's program at the Lyric theatre started off Monday with "He Danced Himself to Death," a two reel Vitagraph which was a strong feature picture. Some of the other feature pictures this week were "The Violin of M'Sieur," a two part Vitagraph; "The Cricket on the Hearth," in two parts; "The Hermit of Lonly Gulsh," a two reel picture featuring Francis X. Bushman; "Who Killed George Graves," in two parts and "Wheels of Safety," in two parts, featuring G. M. Anderson.

STAR—CHARLEROI

Manager Tom B. Cowan is on the job these days procuring the best pictures that are obtainable for his theatre here. Among some of the features this week are "Washington at Valley Forge," "The Tiger," a spectacular circus production in four parts; "Forces of Evil," or "The Dominant Will," featuring Renee Sylvair and Louis Couget, and "By Power of Attorney," or "The Mystery of Jack Hilton," from the celebrated novel by Charles Darlington, in three parts. Many other splendid features are being shown.

PALACE—CHARLEROI

A strong vaudeville bill is appearing at the Palace this week. Larkins and Burns, grotesque comedians who pleased here last year are here this week. Franks and Thesdale, singing and dancing artists, and Carthy and Paul company, presenting refined high class comedy sketch, "Cousin Jack," complete the bill. "The Price of Crime," which was shown Tuesday in three parts is one of the strongest pictures that has ever appeared here. This picture will be shown again in the near future. Other good pictures of the week are "The Brand of Bars," "Merely Mother" "The Reward of Thrift," the second series of European war pictures and episode No. 13 of "The Million Dollar Mystery."

GRAND—PITTSBURG

Harry Davis will bring to the Grand Opera House for the week beginning Monday matinee, October 19, a group of vaudeville attractions which, in the composite, may surpass even those brilliantly artistic shows of the past few weeks. His players are coming from all parts of the world, from war-distraught Europe, the Antipodes and from our own American halls of pastime. The Pittsburg premiere is announced of B. A. Rolfe's most elaborate musical ensemble "Colonial Days." Mr. Rolfe has done so many big meritorious things in a musical way that the coming of "Colonial Days" is certain to awaken pleasurable anticipation. Ten musical virtuosi will interpret this production. They will be garbed in the picturesque apparel of the most interesting period in our history. Chretienne and Louisette, genuine Hollanders with an original act entitled, "From Peasant to Artist." The world's most wonderful acrobats will be seen in the performance of Cherbert's Manchurians, a troupe of real Chinamen, who were imported for the New York Hippodrome spectacles and who do unheard-of-things in a physical way. The renowned Scottish comedian and singer, Harry Lauder, will be evident by means of talking moving pictures. A genuine vaudeville oddity is assured by Allan Dinehart and Mary Louise Dyer. It is a sketch called "The Meanest Man in the World." The continental music-halls are sending us Jack G. McLannan and May Carson, interational roller skaters and dancers who appear in handsome costumes and do a number of exceptional exploits on skates. A musical comedy skit called "The Traveling Salesman and the Feminine Drummer" will be played by Devine and Williams, who deliver their songs and stories across the footlights in most effective fashion. La Toy Brothers, droll pantomimists, will perform whirling and tumbling acrobatics. With other vaudeville attractions and moving pictures, these numbers will comprise a program that must please even the captious critic.

ILLUMINATED PARADE

ed men in line easily went to the fire department. For the prize for the best decorated automobile the contest finally narrowed down to three. the auto of S. L. Woodward, Claybaugh and Milliken and J. W. Berryman and Son with the former finally winning preference. Rendering a decision in the float contest was difficult. L. A. McVey had a float that was seriously considered and the Wagner float won votes. Originality in arrangement, helped the Dixon Furniture company to a prize. Pracitcally every float won honorable mention and to name one without all would be to slight soce. Every float was highly decorated and much taste was shown in the arrangement.

The parade closed the evening's celebration. It is estimated that 10,000 people saw the parade. Capt. Hein handled the parade in good shape, his past military service being of particular benefit in the arrangement.

Not Disturbing the Bass.

The owner of a private lake was not a little agitated to see a man composedly fishing in the pond right beneath the immense sign prohibiting trespassing. With hasty steps, the irate owner bustled for the waterside. "Look here," he explosively exclaimed, "can't you see that sign? Don't you know you are trespassing? I want you to distinctly understand that this lake is privately owned and privately stocked, and that fishing here is not permitted!" "Just a moment, my dear sir," was the calm reloinder of the fisherman, as he withdrew his line and rebaited the hook. "Would you mind telling me what kind of fish you stocked the pond with?" "I stocked it with black bass!" cried the excited owner, "and I don't propose—". "That's all right, sir," interjected the fisherman, casting his line. "There is no occasion to worry. I am fishing for pike."

CHARLEROI WINS FROM MONESSEN

The Page Athletic club of Monessen, was a comparatively easy victim for the Charleroi nine and the baseball game at the ball park Thursday afternoon that was a part of the day's celebration. The game was played in the presence of one of the largest crowds that has ever thronged the place.

Charleroi started off well in the first inning, after the first three Monessen batters had been retired in order. Urben was safe on a mishandled ball by Haywood at short. Mathers laced out a single. It came to pass that the bases were filled, whereupon McIlvaine was soaked on the arm. This meant the first score of the game.

Monessen scored one run in the third inning. Lafferty hit a two-bagger and was brought home by a single by Stefano. That was Monessen's only run of the day.

Charleroi tallied in the third, when Kiefer was given a walk. He finished the circuit on a single and a sacrifice. Motts got a walk in the sixth inning, stole second and came home on Ryan's double. Ryan scored on an error of the catcher.

Ryan started the game in the pitcher's box for Charleroi, and gave way to Katsy Kiefer in the fourth. Osborne finished the game for Charleroi. All men worked well. Score: masse- and enjoyed themselves. Coal company officials from the industrial towns were on hand. Special cars were necessary late in the evening to enable the car line to handle the departing crowd.

CELEBRATION

For some the day was a political day Among the prominents here from various points were County Commissioners Thomas Hill and A. P. Barnum. County Solicitor J. W. Baum, Poor Director H. D. Brownfeller, Coroner James T. Heffran, County Engineer George Chaney and Sealer of Weights and Measures O. Evans Mikesell of Washington; W. M. Brown, of New Castle, candidate for congress; J. W. Hallam, of Washington, candidate for the state senate; and J. Add Sprowls of Donora, Geo. P. Baker and Harry R. Myers of Washington, candidates for the legislature all on the Republican ticket. County Chairman Norman E. Clark, Esq., of the Washington county Republican organization, together with C. E. Carothers was here.

Among the interesting and enjoyable features of the day were band concerts given at intervals by the Ellsworth-Cokeburg band, the Ellsworth-Cokeburg Boys' and the Charleroi Concert band. These organizations performed nobly. Louis Brusa a local singer, added to the delight of visitors as well as home folk at the ball ground in the afternoon by his rendition of tenor solos, with band accompainment of the Charleroi Concert Band.

The evening parade was featured by the large number of automobiles and floats in line. Previous to its' beginning R. W. Brown informally presented to athletic contest prize winners identification cards for prizes at Beryman's store. All sorts of businesses were represented in the parade, even the business of temperance. The W. C. T. U. had two floats in line, and various orders, including the Royal Arcanum and Fraternal Order Patriotic Americans had floats. All told there were probably 100 floats and automobiles in the parade. The Charleroi firemen had 32 men in line and the Fraternal Patriotic Americans about the same number.

ROAD SOON A REALITY

The contractors have been at work on this improvement for sometime and have their work about half completed. They are rushing it rapidly and hope to finish in a short time. When this stretch is completed it will only leave one small piece of one and two-tenths miles unimproved, just beyond the Roth brewery. The energy of the good road boosters will now be centered upon this small stretch and it is thought likely that the contract for its improvement will be let early next spring. As it is now, however, this small stretch of a mile and a fraction will hold up the improved stretch from Marianna, Beallsville and Deemston to Pittsburg.

This shows how important is that small stretch and the one Crookham to Finleyville. When it is completed and the contract let for the other, it will mean a complete stretch of improved highway from Pittsburg almost to the Greene county line. If the Greene county officials would get busy and build a few miles of road from Waynesburg in this direction it would give them a direct outlet to Pittsburg by a complete road system, giving through Marianna, Monongahela, Finleyville and Pittsburg.

In another direction, an improvement that is being watched with interest here is the state highway that is being constructed from Monessen to Webster. When it is completed the Fayette and Westmoreland county towns on the other side of the river will be connected with Pittsburg by a complete stretch by way of Webster, the Donora bridge, Monongahela and Finleyville.

As this benefit has been tied up by the little stretch near Finleyville and that is why the interest of this whole end of the state has been turned on that improvement.

Growth of Germany.

A century ago there was no German empire—only a number of German states whose aggregate wealth and income were probably less than those of France. Now united Germany is estimated to possess an income of nearly $10,000,000,000 and accumulated wealth of about $80,000,000,000. During the century Germany's population has grown from 24,000,000 to more than 67,000,000, or 180 per cent.

MORE STRENGTH FOR OLD PEOPLE

Mrs. Hutchison—Eighty-One Years Old—Uses No Other Tonic but Vinol and Recommends It to Friends.

Greenville, S.C.—"It is with pleasure I tell others of the great benefit I have derived from Vinol, for the past several years. I am 81 years old and I find Vinol gives me strength, a healthy appetite and overcomes nervous disorders. Vinol is the only tonic reconstructor I have used for several years. I have recommended it to a great many of my friends and it has always proved satisfactory." — Mrs. M. A. Hutchison, Greenville, S. C.

Such cases as the above are constantly coming to our attention. If people in this vicinity only realized how Vinol invigorates old people we would not be able to supply the demand.

It is the tissue building, curative elements of the cod's livers, aided by the blood making strengthening properties of tonic iron contained in Vinol, that makes it so successful in building up strength for old people, delicate children and for all run-down conditions. Vinol is also a most successful remedy for chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis. If it fails to benefit any one who tries it we return your money.
